Dear Friends,

L. Zac Isaac
Chair

Keith Burwell
President

In 2019, the Foundation adopted a new corporate identity — a new logo, new styling for our communications tools, and a new tagline, “Strength in Giving, Hope in Action,” a theme reflected in this year’s annual report.

Our renewed mission of strength and hope also involved a name change. Our new name, Greater Toledo Community Foundation, reflects the growth in the Foundation’s service to northwest Ohio communities beyond the city limits of Toledo, and represents our commitment to the well-being of our entire region.

Two of our region’s great assets are the Toledo Symphony Orchestra and the Toledo Ballet. The story that follows on pages 2-3 shines a spotlight on the Foundation’s role in their union as the Toledo Alliance for the Performing Arts, and how a modest financial investment produced great gains for both organizations.

Successes like these would not be possible without our donors and fundholders. The examples of family philanthropy and joyful, selfless service to others that are showcased on pages 4-5 are characteristic of those who have chosen GTCF to facilitate their giving. Their stories provide a glimpse of the tremendous generosity of our partners and their impact on the community.

For nearly a half century, Foundation fundholders and supporters have helped improve our region in countless ways. We thank every individual, family and organization listed in these pages for their support. They truly are the source of our strength in giving, and provide hope in action throughout northwest Ohio and beyond.

Sincerely,

L. Zac Isaac
Chair, Board of Trustees

Keith Burwell
President

A note on COVID-19

In March 2020, the coronavirus pandemic shifted Greater Toledo Community Foundation’s attention and efforts philanthropically, operationally and personally. Community Foundations across the country, including GTCF, have stepped up to help those in need in the face of the COVID-19 crisis, granting hundreds of millions of dollars to support their neighbors in communities large and small.

We are asked every day why people create endowments at the Foundation. Community Foundations have proven to be a ready source of philanthropic capital to address critical needs during this pandemic, like many before. At times like this, the Community Foundation does its best work and it’s because of the generous citizens who have created endowed funds with us that we can respond in a meaningful and expeditious way.

You will hear more about our efforts in this regard soon, but we want to thank the very generous individuals, foundations and businesses that have contributed to our specific COVID Funds – the COVID-19 Response Fund and Community Resilience Fund. At press time for this Annual Report, we have received more than $581,000 in donations and awarded $379,163 in grants to local nonprofits to assist those most vulnerable in our community.

Be brave enough to start a conversation that matters.

— Margaret Wheatley

Two years ago, two Toledo arts organizations had a conversation. No one knew at the outset that it would matter quite as much as it did. But at its conclusion, a unique model was created that combined the symphony and ballet — the Toledo Alliance for the Performing Arts — and a new era had begun for both music and dance in Toledo.

At first, the conversation was about finances, explained Zak Vassar, president of the Toledo Symphony Orchestra (TSO).

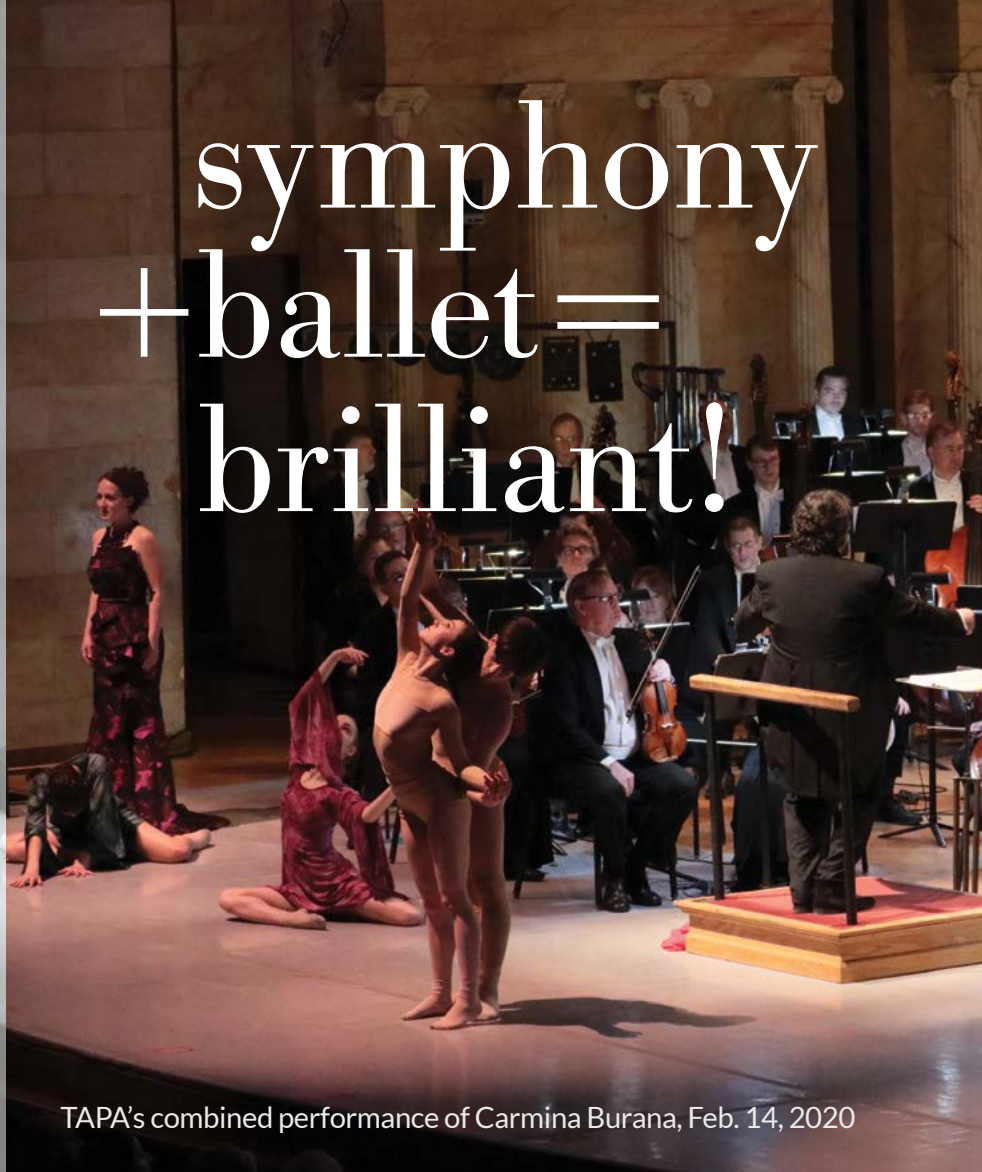

“For decades, members of the TSO had comprised the pit orchestra for the Toledo Ballet, most notably for their annual performance of The Nutcracker,” he said. “But in recent years, the Ballet had begun to experience some financial pressures and asked the TSO if they could reduce their price for the annual performances of the holiday classic.

“Members of the Symphony are paid contractually established rates, so our cost was not something we could change,” he continued. “But we wanted to assist. So, we offered to help them sell more tickets to the performances.” TSO proposed setting a target beyond which all receipts would be split 50/50, and the Ballet agreed.

With their well-established promotional channels, TSO’s involvement led to a 24% increase in box-office revenues for The Nutcracker that season. Describing a post-event review meeting, Zak said, “We asked: Should we do this again? To which the then-chair of the Ballet board, Stephanie Alexander, replied, ‘Let’s do this forever.’”

Enter GTCF and the Strategic Alliance Partnership (SAP).

TAPA's combined performance of Carmina Burana, Feb. 14, 2020

“We knew a facilitated discussion would be essential to a successful process,” said Zak. “The facilitator would need to be a skilled professional with extensive experience in the arts. We also knew about the GTCF’s Strategic Alliance Partnership and how the SAP grant could assist with the cost of our facilitator.”

Heather Bradley, director of The Center for Nonprofit Resources and SAP Program Officer, described the role of the SAP grant in the process. “SAP grants support collaborations of all types between nonprofits that operate in similar arenas,” she said. “One example of SAP support is engaging a neutral third-party professional who can help participants identify a sustainable business model.”

She continued, “This is the one GTCF grant that involves a two-step process. We received a letter of inquiry, which was then reviewed by all three SAP investment partners — GTCF, Stranahan Foundation and ProMedica,” she explained. The fund partners agreed on the merits of the collaboration and invited the participants, who by then had grown to include the Toledo Opera, to submit a proposal.

A real conversation always contains an invitation ... to tell you who they are or what they want. — David Whyte

With the grant in place, the group secured La Piana Consulting to facilitate the discussions. “La Piana came to the table with an early clarification of what would come from this,” said Zak, “ranging from nothing at all, up to and including shared participation, marketing, box-office sales or a total merger.”

While the initial vision was music, song and dance, the Opera chose to remain independent in the end. “The generosity of the GTCF funding provided the space to express with candor both our hopes and our fears,” observed Zak. “The facilitator allowed us to investigate our potentials, choose what’s best for each and still leave the process as friends.”

Zak pointed to another dynamic involving the remaining two groups. “We can’t say that we came to the table as equal organizations,” he said. “The Ballet relied quite a bit on parental and community volunteers. Its dancers were pre-professional youth, occasionally joined by hired adult performers. In contrast, the Symphony had a robust staff, professional union musicians and a $7 million budget. But,” he paused to note, “our attitude was that we were two equals coming together.”

Conversation is a catalyst for innovation. — John Seely Brown

“The discussion also improved our vision of what we could accomplish creatively,” Zak added. “The visual experience of the symphony is quite static, so the opportunity to expand dance into the orchestral space, making movement a part of the audience experience, was huge.” The process concluded in a decision to form a new organization, TAPA, which would handle administration for both the Symphony and Ballet and facilitate their creative collaboration.

The new structure resulted in immediate operational efficiencies. The Ballet had several unresolved vacancies that TAPA made unnecessary to fill. Their executive director joined the Symphony, which in turn afforded the Ballet all the benefits of its fundraising and marketing infrastructure. But there were still concerns to be resolved.

“When we thought about the branding implication of the merger, the biggest question I had was: ‘How do we answer the phone?’” said Zak. “We had to change our names on everything. This is a functional and marketing issue — but it’s also an organizational culture issue.”

He explained: “Donors have such a significant investment in the mission and people of each organization that if we say, ‘give to TAPA,’ we have erased the emotional ties to the legacy organizations. We had to address that concern, too.” So, for now, the TAPA business cards have on the back both TSO and Ballet logos, and the two organizations maintain separate annual fundraising efforts.

Even with these concerns, it is evident to all involved that the benefits of collaboration are outweighing the potential challenges. Zak concluded, “For me, the most exhilarating thing about the merger was what happened in the community after the two organizations raised their hands and said, ‘Let’s collaborate.’ It’s truly a multi-genre experiment to grow the appetite for both music and dance in this region. Our recent performance of Carmina Burana was an example of this, and one that I couldn’t be prouder of.”

The Strategic Alliance Partnership was created to support the exploration and formation of collaborations, alliances and/or mergers that would enable area nonprofits to achieve more effective and efficient use of financial and human resources, gain greater long-term financial stability and enhance social impact. If your nonprofit seeks to benefit from such a partnership, please contact Heather Bradley at Heather@c4npr.org.

If Warren Buffett had a “biggest fan,” it just might be Harold Leupp.

“My dad idolizes Warren Buffett,” said his daughter, Melissa. And Harold agrees. “I’m a huge admirer of what he’s accomplished, and the kind of person he is,” Harold stated.

In fact, the two men have many things in common — midwestern roots, a hard-working, entrepreneurial spirit that took hold in their youth, a commitment to philanthropy — and as his civil engineering career advanced, Harold applied Buffett’s principles to become a successful investor, too. “When each of the kids graduated from college, we gave them stock in Cedar Point” he said. “I wanted to start them out investing right away.”

For both Harold and his wife Carol, philanthropy also started early in life. “When we were kids and attended the Delta Presbyterian Church, we’d put pennies in the collection box as kids,” said Harold. “Sharing with others is a basic Christian concept.”

Harold also admires Warren Buffett’s emphasis on his children’s financial independence, and the fact that the Buffett children are all active philanthropists. So when Harold and Carol were considering the family’s holiday gifts this year, they decided to encourage their own children’s philanthropy by giving each of them their own GTCF donor advised fund.

Said Carol, “We’ve had a donor advised fund at the Foundation for a while,” noting that they use their fund to support arts and education groups, people in need, the Village of Delta and their local church. Harold added, “I could be a salesman for the Foundation. We have 24 organizations that we give to. And the Foundation does such a wonderful job — it takes all the work right out of it. We thought it would be perfect for the kids.”

“I was very pleased,” said Melissa about her father’s gift, noting that it was very fitting given his admiration for Buffett. “When we came home for the holidays, Dad brought each of us — me, my sister Sarah and my brother, Christopher — into his office and gave us a briefing on how he had established funds for each of us for our charitable giving. He explained how he and Mom had a fund of their own and how they used it.”

Melissa, a school occupational therapist in Arlington, Virginia, particularly appreciated the ability to be more strategic about her giving. “In the past,” she said, “I’ve had limited ability to contribute to organizations that are important to me. Because I’m so involved with education in my community and a mother, too, I’m looking to support causes that I don’t have time to devote myself to.”

Not surprisingly, Melissa is interested in supporting education with her fund, an interest shared by her mother, who worked for a few years as a schoolteacher. “I also want to use my fund to support social causes and the environment,” she said. “My parents’ gift will allow my giving to have more intention and more impact.”

Mark Zyndorf will tell you that when he married his wife Gretchen after nearly a lifetime of bachelorhood, he found true love with one of the most exceptional women he'd ever known.

"Her stepdaughter would describe her as a cross between Martha Stewart and Mother Teresa," he said. "And it's true. She was a very creative person, and loved to entertain. And everything was about others – never about her."

Gretchen's selfless nature was inspired by a keen awareness of her blessings and a deep sensitivity to others who were less fortunate. She spent a lonely childhood on her family's farm, and had a difficult but brief marriage to her high-school sweetheart. Gretchen then remarried happily to a successful physician but was widowed after just twelve years. She married again, this time to Mark's best friend, Sheldon, whom she also lost to lengthy illness.

Sharing a common grief for their lost loved one, Mark and Gretchen soon were seeing each other with some frequency. "Gretchen wondered if perhaps it was too early to consider a new relationship," said Mark, "so she consulted our rabbi. 'Life is for the living,' was his advice – so she took it." Within two years, the couple wed.

As Mark's wife, Gretchen continued her lifetime habit of helping others in ways big and small. "She enjoyed doing the behind-the-scenes work," said Mark. "She cooked a full meal every month for a homeless shelter. She served on the board of the Sight Center – but she also read to the blind. She donated to the Humane Society, but she'd also clean cat boxes and cages as a volunteer."

Gretchen was well-off in her own right before she married Mark, a successful commercial real-estate developer, so she managed her own funds. "She didn't buy expensive clothes or a lot of stuff for herself," said Mark. "But she couldn't figure out where all her money was going. I said 'Give me your checkbook and I'll tell you.' Then I discovered nearly all of her personal expenditures were gifts to charity."

With that, they decided to establish a donor advised fund for Gretchen at GTCF. And, when they established a number of legacy funds (planned gifts) for Gretchen, they were making provisions for an eventuality in the distant future. But then, an unexpected illness changed everything.

"She didn't drink, and took excellent care of her health," said Mark. "But despite all that, she contracted a rare form of liver cancer," he explained. Thanks to excellent medical treatment, Gretchen and Mark were able to enjoy almost three additional years together before she lost her battle with the disease.

Speaking of her generous spirit, Mark said, "Gretchen wanted to be sure that when she passed, her legacy would include support for the causes she held dear – the arts, animals, and people in need. Caring for the less fortunate was tremendously important to her. If ever there was an angel, she was one."

Gretchen and Mark Zyndorf enjoyed travelling together. Here, they are savoring a gondola ride through the canals of Venice.

creating a fund

Take a moment to consider the important part you might play in Greater Toledo Community Foundation's work by creating a charitable fund. There are many ways to get started, and we invite you to explore them with your family, your professional advisor and with Foundation staff.

Sofia Quintero Art & Cultural Center

The Foundation offers a variety of ways for you to make donations to reach your philanthropic goals. You can establish your own fund at the Foundation either during your lifetime or through your estate plan. All grants distributed from your fund – today and in the future – are awarded to charities, as determined by you, in the name of your fund.

Your gift to the Foundation may be made in many forms. Corporations and businesses are limited to gifts of cash, securities, closely-held stock, limited partnership interests and real estate. You and your family have even more options to consider.

Vehicles for Giving

A cash gift is tax deductible as provided under current law.

Donations of appreciated publicly-traded securities are accepted. This type of gift avoids capital gains tax and allows the maximum tax deduction for the full market value of the gift. The Foundation also accepts closely-held stock and limited partnership interests.

A bequest in your will is a simple way to leave a lasting legacy.

A life insurance policy can be changed to designate the Foundation as the owner and/or beneficiary of a policy.

Real estate (land, primary residences, vacation homes or farm land) can be donated to the Foundation and deducted at full fair market value, up to 30 percent of your adjusted gross income. The Foundation sells the real estate and the net proceeds capitalize a new fund or are added to an existing fund. Similarly, tangible personal property can be donated to the Foundation, which is also then sold.

Decide if you want family members involved, both now and/or in the future. Consider how much involvement you want in selecting the charitable organizations that will receive grants from your fund. Think about how much you want to give in charitable contributions each year.

Contact a Philanthropic Services

Officer at the Foundation to discuss the fund option or options (described in the Existing Funds section, pages 14-21) that best suit your interests and needs. We can create a personalized plan, including the appropriate legal and other documentation, which makes giving simple and relevant.

4 simple steps to establish your fund

Determine which asset or giving vehicle you will use to start your fund.

Evaluate the options of lifetime assets versus planned giving assets – or a combination of the two.

Select a name for your fund.

Many donors choose a family name, a name that honors or memorializes a loved one or a company name.

Retirement fund accounts are often your largest asset. You can give all or part of these assets to the Foundation, both during your lifetime and/or at your death.

A charitable remainder trust allows you (or other named beneficiaries) to receive lifetime income. Upon your death, the remaining principal creates a fund at the Foundation. You receive an immediate charitable deduction for a portion of the gift and avoid capital gains tax.

A charitable lead trust creates income for the Foundation for a specified period, after which the remaining principal is distributed to named beneficiaries. Gift and estate taxes are reduced with this type of gift.

Transfer of a private foundation affords you many advantages, including lower overhead, staff to assist with your charitable goals and a higher tax deduction for any future gift, to name only a few.

We know that, over time, our community's needs and opportunities change and nonprofit organizations have emerged and grown in large numbers to address these issues. Many organizations seek help with capacity and sustainability – the kind of support they need to achieve their missions.

The Center for Nonprofit Resources helps nonprofit organizations advance their missions through expert guidance and a wide array of services, training and educational opportunities. Services offered by The Center include professional development, technical assistance, on-demand resources and engagement.

The Center also offers two professional certificate programs. The Certificate in Nonprofit Management provides the fundamentals an individual needs to build their skills in nonprofit management. The Minority Executive Leadership Certificate program is designed to support emerging nonprofit leaders, specifically minority CEOs/Executive Directors and staff interested in growing into these positions. A combination of high-quality professional development workshops and mentorships provide training and an ongoing support system for personal and professional success.

The Center for Nonprofit Resources launched an initiative to understand the nonprofit landscape in northwest Ohio. The goal was to shift the conversation about the local nonprofit community from anecdotal to data-driven discussions. The findings are summarized in a White Paper published by the Greater Toledo Community Foundation which offers a reliable, data-driven method to measure and understand our local nonprofit landscape. The Center is also able to use the findings to design and deliver programs with the highest impact.

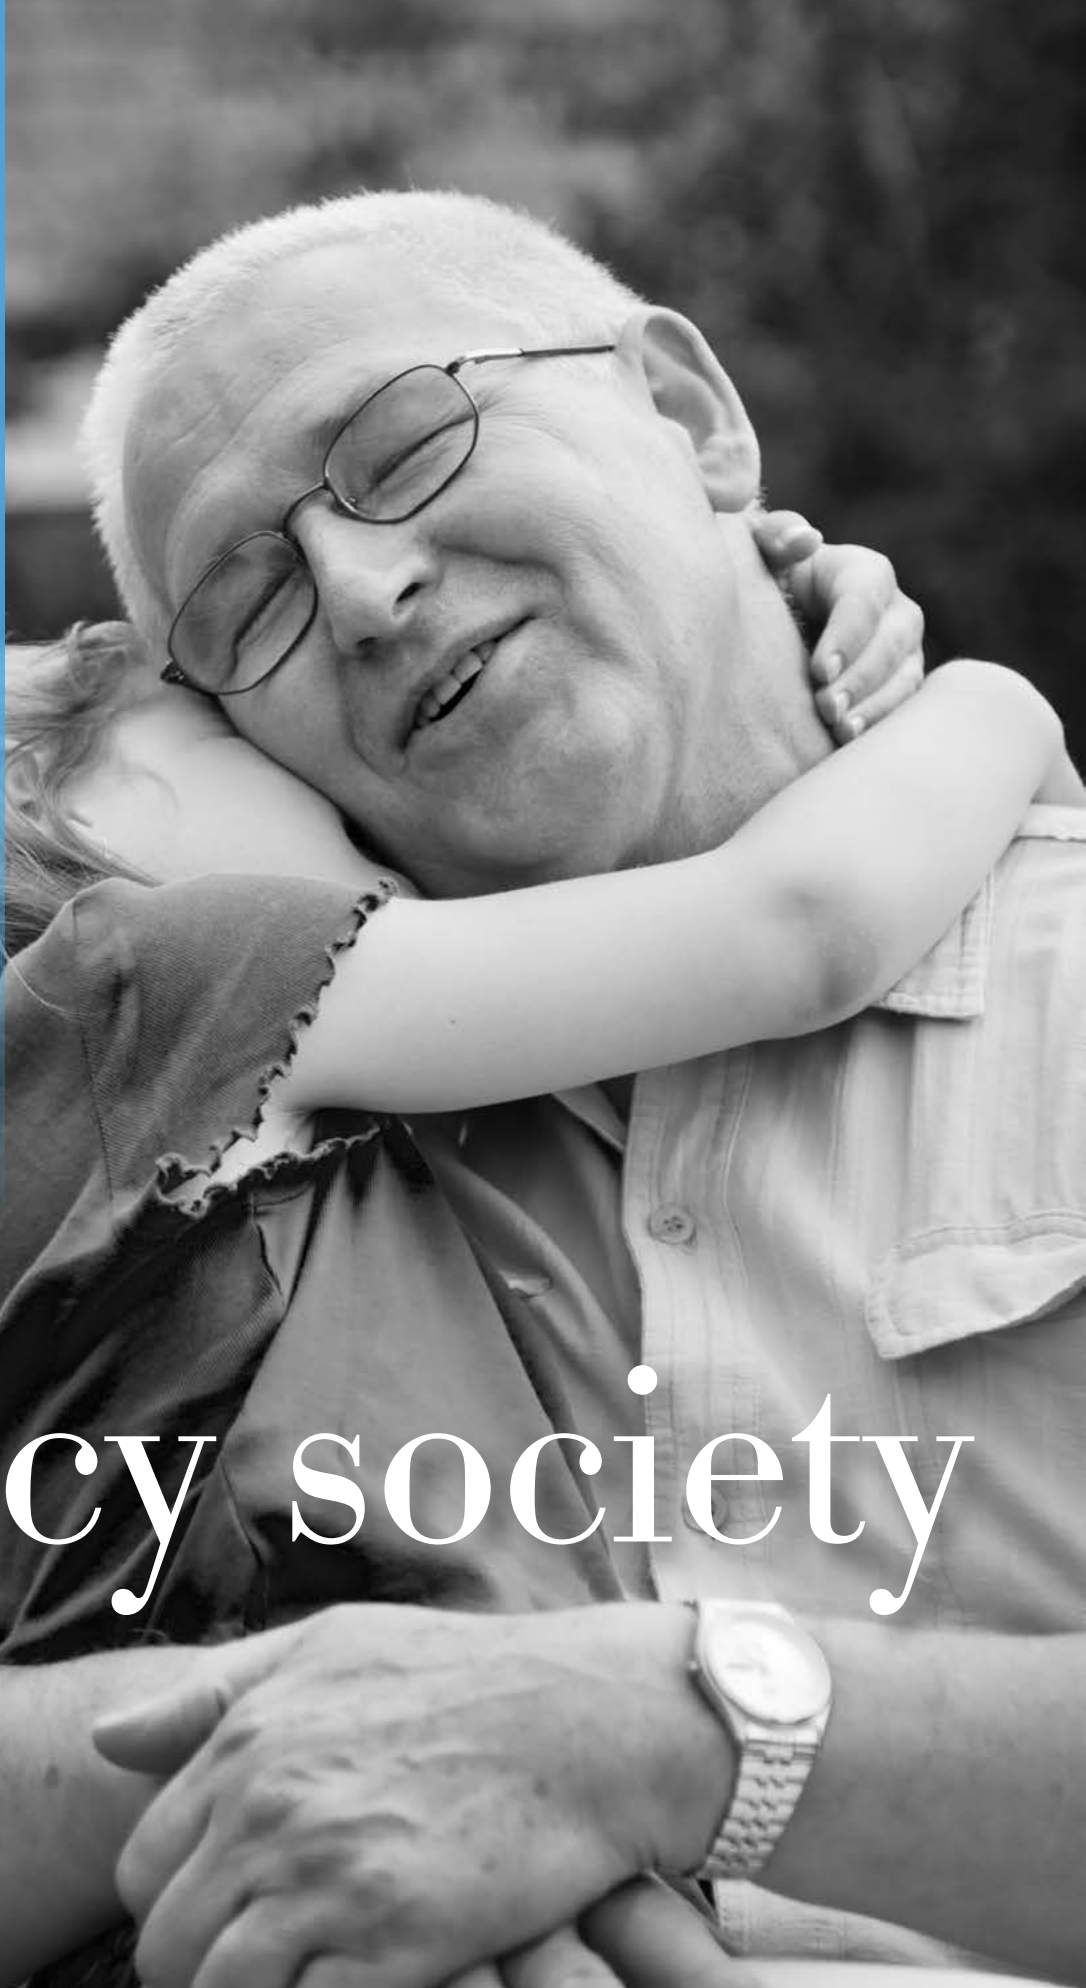

If you or an agency you care about could benefit from The Center's offerings, you are encouraged to call Heather Bradley, Director, The Center for Nonprofit Resources, at 419.241.9513. Information about current workshop offerings can be found on our website at www.toledocf.org or The Center's website at www.c4npr.org.

An additional offering, by establishing an organization endowment fund under the auspices of the Foundation, nonprofit organizations are relieved of the administrative burdens and costs associated with holding their own endowment fund, while receiving a steady stream of income for operating, programmatic and other organizational needs.

For information about creating an organization endowment fund, contact Mike George or Bridget Brell Holt in our Philanthropic Services Department at 419.241.5049.

Greater Toledo Community Foundation offers giving options that enable you to leave a legacy for future generations and benefit your personal and financial goals at the same time. You can arrange to establish a legacy fund or add to a fund set up in your lifetime. Sunshine Communities

Community and Field of Interest Funds

respond to changing times and connect personal values to grantmaking

A Community Fund is the broadest option and leaves the decisions about your gift to the Foundation. You trust the Foundation's extensive experience and knowledge of the community to identify the most pressing needs and effective programs. A Community Fund provides maximum assurance a fund will remain timely and relevant. Grants from these funds are given to qualified organizations to support the well-being and vitality of our region and its residents.

A Field of Interest Fund allows you to direct funding to specific causes (the environment, youth programs or the arts, for instance) or geographical areas (a town, county or region) that you feel strongly about, yet it does not restrict grants to any one particular organization. Field of Interest Funds support issues or areas that are important to you in perpetuity.

Choosing a fund option that is right for you

There are many flexible ways to support your interests — the choice is yours.

How involved do you want to be in your grantmaking? Do you want to give to a specific organization or a specific area of interest? Launch a scholarship to honor or memorialize a loved one? Restrict your giving to northwest Ohio and/or fund internationally? Create or continue your business giving program? Whatever your giving goals, there is a fund option for you.

The Foundation offers a number of fund options for you, your family, businesses and non-profit organizations. A fund at the Foundation operates like a private foundation, but without the administrative and legal burdens associated with private foundations. The funds are flexible and you decide how much or how little you want to be involved in making grants.

Throughout this section, you'll see descriptions of each type of fund followed by acknowledgement of those in our community who have chosen such a fund to support their philanthropy.

Designated Funds

support effective organizations

You support one or more specific charitable organizations or institutions in perpetuity.

A Designated Fund may help a single theatre, a food bank or a school during your life and after your death. If a beneficiary organization ceases to exist, loses its tax-exempt status or changes its mission, the Foundation redirects support to a similar organization to honor your original intent.

Donor Advised Funds

engage with your giving

A Donor Advised Fund provides maximum flexibility for your grantmaking, allowing designated advisors (named by you) to make recommendations regarding grants from your fund. While you take a more active role in your grantmaking (whether local, national or international), the Foundation facilitates compliance with financial, legal and tax requirements. The Foundation also helps develop grantmaking strategies, articulates funding guidelines and conducts due diligence, relieving you of the administrative responsibilities associated with charitable giving. If you wish, the Foundation helps you identify additional organizations that you might consider supporting.

Types of Donor Advised Funds

You have several options:

Single advised fund • Allows only you to make grant recommendations.

Family advised fund • Provides a simple and popular way for your family to engage in organized philanthropy.

Corporate advised fund • Offers flexible options for your business and/or employees' charitable giving programs. Your company or business can outsource all, or any part, of its charitable giving program to the Foundation for management.

You can endow your fund, requiring that the principal of the fund remains untouched and only a percentage of the annual earnings on the fund are available for grantmaking; or you can create a growth fund (non-endowed) allowing the flexibility to distribute both fund principal and annual earnings, although not below the minimum required fund balance of $10,000.

Supporting Organization Funds

partner with the Foundation for access to community
information

A Supporting Organization is a separate and distinct legal and grantmaking entity that is in direct affiliation with the Foundation. It maintains its own board of trustees which has decision-making authority relevant to grant recipients and other matters. A Supporting Organization's alliance with the Foundation reduces administrative, investment and regulatory burdens. Family involvement, individual attention, flexibility, professional staffing and access to community information are among the key reasons that families and businesses create supporting organizations at Greater Toledo Community Foundation.
